The Irish Orienteer

No. 61 December- January 1993 ISSN 0790-1194

The Wood for the Trees

Because we are so involved in the day to day running of orienteering we can find that we lose sight of longer term goals or trends and it can be useful to stand back and look at where we are going. Having let the 60th issue/tenth birthday of The Irish Orienteer pass by without a mention it might be an appropriate time to review the last ten years and look at the next ten (all in less than one page ...) In the first TIO I suggested that IOA was engaged in what is now called "crisis management", dealing with problems as they arose and not trying to plan ahead. Ten years later this still seems to be the case. Numbers in orienteering haven't increased significantly in that time and standards of mapping, organisation and competition have remained more or less static. We are like a small cork being tossed around in a storm: the wind blows and we cannot resits: we can just react. Emigration has been a major drain on the orienteering population: this is likely to continue. Economic recession and unemployment, while they may not be major factors affecting existing orienteers, will prevent the sport from spreading to large numbers of ordinary people whose lives could benefit from it, just as ours have. Increased costs have already hit clubs, notably forestry permits and insurance premiums. Even so, orienteering is still exceptional value for money: because it is so manpower- intensive it would cost a fortune if the voluntary workers charged for their time.

What of the future? On the positive side there is an increased awareness of orienteering and increased leisure time and interest in the environment should benefit us. Technology has always played an important part in orienteering, from the development of the compass to satellite navigation systems. The advent of OCAD and other computer-draughting systems makes top-quality cartography possible for everyone, while the availablity of up to date satellite photographs may reduce ground survey time enormously. TV coverage using transmitters attached to competitors allowing spectators to follow the course of a race has already been done.

On the negative side we are still at the mercy of landowners and Coillte for access; the law regarding landowners' liability still hasn't been changed, and with a change of government that may be shelved too; higher expectations by competitors will lead to higher costs for maps due to professional surveying; increased fuel costs may restrict the use of private transport, making some O-areas inaccessible; fewer teachers involved in orienteering means that the roots of the whole sport are drying up but it's taking some time for this message to make its way to the topmost branches. So, an Irish assessment of the future might be: "Desperate, but not serious". Here's to the next ten years.

J.McCullough.

FOR COFFEE FREAKS

Have you ever thought that you ran better after drinking coffee? A paper in the Journal of Applied Physiology last year details a study where seven trained competitive runners took part in exercises involving running and cycling to exhaustion at about 85% V_{02}max. After taking 9mg of caffeine per kg body weight an hour before exercise their performance increased significantly: they ran for 71 minutes compared to 49, and cycled for 59 minutes instead of 39. Plasma epinephrine concentration before and during exercise was also increased as in some cases was plasma glycerol concentration. The conclusion was that caffeine in high doses increases both epinephrine concentration and endurance performance in elite athletes while urinary caffeine concentration, at 9-10 mg/ml, is below the level accepted by the International Olympic Committee.

THE FAR SIDE

The IOF control description symbols are a useful thing to know if you're running in a competition where English is not the daily language. They also feature in most major events as a form of shorthand, to get a lot of information into a small space. Some new symbols were introduced in the past year or so but haven't yet received widespread use. At a recent BOF National Event in Britain a discussion was heard about the meaning of the "ק" symbol and the most likely explanation was that it meant "on the other side of ...!". (No doubt all you readers knew it immediately as the symbol for "ruined")

O FOR SOMALIA: December 13th

Concern about the ongoing mass deaths from starvation in Somalia should lead to constructive action, especially in these weeks leading up to Christmas when so much money is spent on luxuries and non-essentials.

Why not do something to help, and have fun orienteering at the same time? The Malahide Castle event on Sunday, December 13th, organised by UCDO, will be run solely for charity, the entire proceeds being donated to Concern in aid of Somalia.

Make a date: Malahide Castle, Co. Dublin. Accessible by train and bus. Free refreshments afterwards. Start times 11.00-1.00 pm.

ODDS 'n'ENDS'n'ODDS

* "Up & Down" down and out: We note with sadness the demise of the fell-running magazine "Up and Down", sister magazine to CompassSport. Particularly missed is the scurrilous "Fellternative" section.

* "Late Night": You may have wondered about this heading in TIO60, and about "Controllers Night" which followed. Allow me to explain. Barry Denton, who prints TIO, is a scholar and a gentleman who gave his word that TIO60 would be ready on time. He decided to retype part of a page which I had put in at the last minute to fill up a space. However, having had some technical problem with the printing he was working all through Saturday night at it and obviously his thoughts were on sleep and such. Hence "Late News" became "Late Night" and "Controllers Course" became "Controllers Night". See?

* Also disappointed at the conditions for the Slievemartin national event were 3ROC whose flier for IOC 93 says that the competition area, Carlingford Mountain, is visible across the Lough from Rostrevor. Not that day, it wasn't. Incidentally, are 3ROC the first club to introduce Visa and Access for payment of event entry fees? This innovation is aimed to streamline entries from abroad but should get quite a lot of use from home based orienteers too.

* Lost and Found: If you took a jacket by mistake at the Irish 2-Day in Co. Waterford at the end of October, please contsct Aine ní Shúilleabháin, Courtlands, Carysfort Avenue, Blackrock, Co. Dublin. This also applies if you took it on purpose!

* Connacht Update: The entry forms for the Sprint-O and Connacht Championships in February should say that the scale of the second day's map is 1:15,000 (not 1:1,500), and that M/W 21 Novice classes will be available, not just M21. OK, Cathal?

* If, incidentally, you're in London or thereabouts on the weekend of the Connacht Champs (Feb 28) you might like to run in LOK's National Event 2 and Southern Championships at Leith Hill near Dorking, south of London. Entries to NE2, 61 Huggins Lane, Wehlam Greet, Herts Al9 7LJ, by 1st February. Seniors STG£7.50, juniors £3.00. Ex-IOA Treasurer Ronan Cleary (also 3ROC) is, we understand, planning the courses.

* Two events have peen postponed recently because of exceptionally bad weather: the second day of the Irish Two-Day at Coumshingaun, Co. Waterford, and the National Event at Slieve Martin in Co. Down. Both areas are exposed open mountainside, so it just highlights how much more we will be at the mercy of the weather when we use open areas rather than forested ones in winter. The plans at the moment are to run the Coumshingaun event on May 2nd when there was an event planned for there anyway, and to run Slieve Martin again on September 25th as the NI Championships.

THE WEST AWAKE

Increased insurance costs, forestry permit fees and other costs all played their part in the demise of Lough Key Orienteering Club and the formation of Phoenix Navigators (PXN) with what was Western Eagles. Chairman Cathal Cregg has put a lot of effort into promoting orienteering in the Athlone area, with four new maps and weekly press coverage in the Westmeath Independent.

Local TD Mary O'Rourke attended the event on a new map of Moydrum on November 22nd (could this have anything to do with a certain general election on the 25th?) and a major promotion is planned, culminating in the January 24th event at Clonfad near Ballinasloe. The club are also running the Connacht Championships at the end of February and rumour has it that the event may revert to a two-day format with relays on the Saturday and individual on Sunday.

CAROL McNEILL COURSE

Carol McNeill, for many years now one of Britain's top orienteers and an outdoor instructor to boot, is to give a controlling course for IOA in Cork on January 30/31 next. Places are limited so book early. Full details are in the advertisement on page 2. Details from Frank Cunnane (021-358480).

TRAINEE INSTRUCTOR

Tiglin, the National Adventure Centre, has a vacancy for a suitable person to start as a trainee instructor. This would be an ideal opportunity for someone who wishes to pursue a career in adventure sports. Training with remuneration covers two years and the trainee is assured of a thorough grounding in the teaching of a variety of adventure sports. Some of Ireland's foremost professionals started their careers as Tiglin trainees.

A first year trainee earns £100 per week with accommodation. He or she will act as an assistant, accompanying instructors all over Ireland, Scotland and other venues. In the second year wages will be £120 p.w. with additional allowances depending on the qualifications the trainee has managed to acquire. Previous trainees have found that a job in a centre is virtually guaranteed after training in Tiglin.

Ideally, applicants should have proven commitment and experience in at least one adventure sport activity but with some involvement or interest in others.

Contact Marcus Bailie at Tiglin, The National Adventure Centre, Ashford, Co. Wicklow. (0404-40169).

NATIONAL ADVENTURE MARATHON

Timmy Flavin, you will recall, wrote in TIO about the Challenger Trophy held in Scotland last May where he was a member of the ESB team. Now Cappanalea Outdoor Centre in Kerry is running a similar event here and teams from An Post, Telecom Eireann, Gardai, the Army, FCA and Naval Service have been invited. The ESB have already committed a team to the event which they will use as training for the 1993 Challenger Trophy.

The dates for this 3-Day event are March 26-27-28 1993 involving 9 stages covering 50 miles with categories for male teams, female teams and mixed teams, teams being 4 members and orienteering clubs are also invited to enter.

The stages will demand a strong commitment to teamwork, navigation and prolonged endurance/ stamina in a remote wilderness environment. Activities will include night navigation, hill running, water sports, cycling, orienteering and initiative exercises.

Entry fees are £280 per team which covers full accommodation, event transport, specialist equipment, event material and insurance. Entries close on January 31st and must be accompanied by a £120 deposit.

Details from Donal O'Dowd, Cappanalea Outdoor Centre, Caragh Lake, Killorglin, Co. Kerry.

GARDA O-CHAMPIONSHIPS

The inaugural Garda Síochána orienteering championships were held near Templemore, Co. Tipperary on October 21st. The sport is being promoted at the police training college there by well known runner Con Lynch and Pat Healy of CNOC has produced three maps in the area for the Gardai. The A-course was won by hill runner and occasional orienteer Adrian Tucker in 68.45 with fellow hill runner Kevin Grogan (CNOC) third. Peter Whelan, a student Garda, finished second, 20 seconds down on the winner. In the womens race Eileen Giles finished in 61 minutes, 2 minutes clear of her Garda College classmate Patricia Maguire, with Karyn Lynch third.

The 1:15,000 scale map of Borrisnoe Mountain, beside the Devil's Bit, was surveyed by an Army map-making course and drawn on OCAD by Pat Healy. The terrain is half open mountainside and half "green" forest. Con Lynch is hoping to set up a Garda orienteering club and is encouraging those passing through the College to make contact with clubs in the areas where they will be working in order to continue with orienteering.

1993 AGE CLASSES

It doesn't seem like a year since we last listed the age classes, but on January 1st many of you will move up a class. With fewer events now featuring age class competition it isn't always easy to remember how classes work. The left column is your year of birth, the right column is the corresponding age class for 1993.

ORIENTEERING AND THE OPW

The Office of Public Works are now major landowners in Wicklow, having been acquiring upland areas with a view to assembling a National Park. As it is, Glandalough and Cronybyrne are two established orienteering areas which the OPW now control. A recent meeting between IOA and OPW established procedures for gaining access to orienteering areas and more meetings are planned to ensure that problems are avoided. The attitude of the OPW towards orienteering is generally positive, as is Coillte's, but the bad news is that Curracloe in Co. Wexford, now controlled by OPW, will not be used for orienteering competitions again because of the serious erosion of the dune system which is taking place there. This is, of course, a great shame, since it is among the best areas in the country for orienteering. Cronybyrne, on the other hand, is largely available without restrictions and the Leinster Championships will be run there in March.

There are certain conditions attached to OPW permits for orienteering: sensitive sections within the competition area are to be avoided, and so on, but these just mean the application of common sense and some checking with OPW about each forest which is in their hands. Full details will be given to clubs as things develop.

"MYSTERY DEATH OF ORIENTEERS"

You may have been startled to see this headline in The Independent on Sunday recently, above an article detailing the unexplained deaths of seven Swedish elite orienteers during the past three years. Such is the concern in Sweden that the National team has been instructed to stop training. The most recent victim was 24 year old Melker Karlsson, a member of the national team based at Karlskoga, who collapsed and died after a post-training sauna. He had run in the World Cup final in the USA the month before. Six others had died in similar circumstances in the previous three years. The 50-strong team and 150 at special O-schools were immediately instructed to stop training, as has the Danish national team.

The Swedish O-Federation has appointed a group of medical experts to examine a group of 250 elite orienteers judged to be a risk group who will undergo extensive medical examination and a second group of 3000 Swedish orienteers will be examined to identify any who are carrying infections.

The reason for these deaths remains unknown. A condition called Taiwan Acute Respiratory Infection which can cause inflammation of the heart muscle (myocarditis) was suspected, as was an animal-borne infection and some connection with the post exercise sauna. Myocarditis has caused the deaths of orienteers before, arising from running with a viral infection. Mike Wells-Cole, a well known British orienteer in the 70's died from this cause, if I remember correctly.

The feeling is that the problem may not be specifically orienteering-related, merely that it appeared among orienteers first because of the huge numbers of participating in Sweden. One common factor in all the deaths was that all of them had taken exercise when ill. Thay all had, either at the time or shortly before, a respiratory infection or symptoms of 'flu.

The advice from Wendy Dodds, British O-Federation medical officer, is not to train or compete if you have an infection, a fever or are feeling unwell. We'll keep you informed if more news becomes available. In the meantime, what about babiosis, Weil's disease, cancer from fern spores and Lyme disease? As if us hypochondriacs hadn't enough to worry about already!

So: Don't Panic. If you have a cold or 'flu, ease up on training and don't race: your body has enough work to do overcoming the infection without imposing the further stress of training or racing on it too.

Phoenix Navigators (PXN)

You may have noticed the letters "PXN" appearing intermittently in orienteering results in recent months and wondered what it meant. All will now be revealed!

The Phoenix was a fabled bird in Greek mythology. Only one such bird existed at any one time and it was always male. It had brilliant gold and reddish-purple feathers and was as large if not larger than an eagle. According to some Greek writers the phoenix lived exactly five hundred years. Other writers believed its life cycle was as long as 97,200 years.

At the end of each life cycle the phoenix burned itself on a funeral pyre and another phoenix rose from the ashes with renewed youth and beauty. The yound phoenix, after rising from the ashes, carried the remains of its father to the altar of the Sun God in the Egyptian city of Heliopolis (City of the Sun). The long life of the phoenix and its dramatic rebirth from its own ashes made it a symbol of immortality and spiritual rebirth.

The Greeks probably took the idea of the phoenix from the Egyptians who worshipped the benu, a sacred bird similar to the stork. The benu, like the phoenix, was connected with the sun-worship rites of Heliopolis: both birds represented the sun, which dies in its flames each evening and emerges each morning.

Phoenix Navigators (PXN) has risen from the ashes of Western eagles and Lough Key orienteering clubs. The Western Eagle has landed and will cease to rise from the end of 1992. The gates of Lough Key Forest Park have been closed to Lough Key OC due to the prohibitive costs of forestry permits and park fees and the club has disbanded due to this and other prohibitive costs.

Although there was only one phoenix, and a male, Phoenix navigators consists of both males and females, some with both youth and beauty. Phoenix Navigators will be as large if not larger than Western Eagles.

The sun may have set in Galway Bay on the demise of Western Eagles and Lough Key OC, but the birth of new club Phoenix Navigators is a symbol of the immortality and rebirth of orienteering in the west of Ireland.

The Officers of PXN are:

Chairman: Cathal Cregg, Ballydangan, Athlone, Co. Roscommon (0905-73322);

Secretary: Breda Daly, Camcloon, Athlone, Co. Roscommon (0905-73502);

Christmas Greetings and best wishes for the New Year

1992 Home International Series

Senior Home International:

The Scots have several classic orienteering areas which go through several incarnations and get used for major events from time to time without losing their challenge. Craig'a'Barns springs to mind, as do the Trossachs, and it was to the Trossachs that the Senior Home International returned on October 17th. Situated near Aberfoyle, about 20 miles north of Glasgow, the area comprises steep Glendalough-like ancient oak forest with coniferous plantation surrounding Lough Achray and the strategically placed Achray Hotel.

As usual, Ireland, England, Scotland and Wales took part, with teams from the M/W 19, 21 and 35 age classes. Accommodated at Aberfoyle, we only had about 8 km to go to the event on a beautiful cold, bright, frosty morning. Despite being a National event (the next best thing to a Championship) the course lengths were surprisingly short: this suggested that the going must be slow, the courses very physical. As it turned out they were a bit short, with all the winning times faster than expected for National events. M21E was only 9km/675m, W21E was 5.8km/385m.

A stiff climb to the start brought us to the edge of the contoured deciduous section where most courses had a leg of about 1.5 km across a steep, complex slope: what a start! The quality of the orienteering in the first two-thirds of the courses was outstanding: few line features, rock, heather, spectacular mountain scenery if you had time to look, all run in the stadium of autumn birch and oak wood on a crisp, sunny morning: who could ask for more? The final part of the courses brought us into the relatively easier planted forest with some tracks and fewer contours but, strangely, it was here that many came to grief. The concentration needed for the earlier part of the courses was such that it was all too easy to switch off when we moved into the easier forest and this caused mistakes to be made, losing precious time near the end of the courses.

After the first day the score stood at England 187, Scotland 172, Ireland 97, Wales 85. The usual scenario was unfolding: Scotland v England at the front, Ireland v Wales at the back.

The relays next day were at Duchray Water, previously used in two Scottish 6-Day events, and notable for its fine Victorian aqueducts, at one minute leaping a valley, the next becoming a tunnel and running through the hillside. There was only a 1 km difference between the long and the short courses and the rules governing team composition made for some interesting teams. Long (one women), medium (two women), short (no M21's) meant for example that we had Justin May running the short. The best Irish placing was 4th on the short and medium. The English team consolidated their overnight lead with a score of 78 to Scotland's 70, while the Irish pulled clear of Wales with scores of 40 to 28. The final score was England 265, Scotland 242, Ireland 137, Wales 113.

Next year's SHI is in Northern Ireland, being run by NWOC, and it will provide a chance for Irish orienteers to match themselves against the top British competitors. St. Patrick was a dab hand at getting rid of snakes, let's hope he can quench the dragon's fire next year too! This year's competition once again gave rise to a serious question which will have to be addressed by the Irish team management before we return to this area: just what is a Trossach anyway?

Veteran Home International, Slieve Martin, Co. Down.

Fair play to them; the Veteran teams from the four competing countries ran in some of the toughest weather conditions seen for many a day and lived to tell the tale. The event was run at Rostrevor, Co. Down, with the generous assistance of the Newry and Mourne District Council, in conjunction with BOF National Event 9. At least that was the plan. The two days before the event the weather was perfect and the event promised to be memorable: fast running on the grassy slopes of the Mournes. As it turned out, it was a memorable event but for a different reason. Gale force winds, sleet and rain, low cloud and visibility measured in feet rather than metres greeted the early starters. Cagoules, shortened courses and the moving of the start into the forest did little to improve matters, and the tough-as-old-boots veterans went over the top as was expected op them.

During the first hour the conditions deteriorated to such an extent that the National Event was postponed so the only ones who got a run that day were the vets. Of 77 starters only 54 or so finished, several coming in with symptoms of mild hypothermia. The finish officials waited patiently while finishers thought out the answer to the difficult question "What country are you running for?", forcing frozen brain to turn over and seized jaws to creak open and speak. The unfortunate organisers couldn't have hoped for a worse day and the disappointment felt by the organising team, notably planner Alan Gartside, was equalled by that of the competitors who have travelled so far for the national event. after day 1 the order of finishing was England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland.

All to play for in the Relays.

The parkland of Kilbroney and the steep slopes of Rostrevor Forest were used for both the VHI Relays and the Northern Ireland Relay Championships next day. The format of a score relay, developed in Northern Ireland, was again used and worked well although the previous day had obviously taken its toll on the runners whose times in the relay were somewhat longer than expected. Once again England dominated the race and the finish order was unchanged.

The only results to hand as yet are the team results:
England 114+52=176, Scotland 105+52=157, Wales 53+22=75, Ireland 42+20=62.

Courses used in the league will be yellow, orange, red, green, blue and brown. White courses may be provided at events but will not be used for the league. A competitors best 7 events will be counted for league points for all courses except orange: the orange course will be the best 6 events. If courses are voided at future events these numbers may have to be revised downwards, as happened last year.

To count in the Leinster League you must be a current member of an affiliated Leinster club; you must take part alone (i.e. not as part of a pair or group); you must fill in your name, club and age class on your control card; you must run in at least the required number (6 or 7) of the events; if you choose to run twice on a day only your first run will count in the League.

Affiliated Leinster clubs are: AJAX, COMADO, CNOC, DUO, FIN, GEN, KSO, LSOA, SET, 3ROC, UCDO.

1000 points will be awarded to the fastest Leinster competitor on each course and your points will be a proportion of that, depending on your time. To find out your points, divide the winner's time by your time and multiply by 1000.

Orienteering will again be a demonstration sport at the Community Games in Mosney next year... The Leinster O-council is to levy clubs according to their membership to raise funds for administering orienteering in Leinster in the coming year...The next LOC meeting will be in early March. Any communications should be addressed to Jane Watt, Hon. Sec. LOC, 17 Templeroan Way, Knocklyon Road, Dublin 16.

The Mountain Marathon Page

Andersons' Mournes Mountain Marathon

Mourne Mountains, September 19/20

After last year's terrible weather conditions when both Philip Butler and myself, (with different partners) had to abandon our attempt, it was with some anxiety that we set off on this year's MMM. Mist covered the tops as we arrived at the Event Centre in the Silent Valley but the weather was dry and mild, with showers promised. After our gear check we set off on the 17.9k C Course. The first control was easy, a stream flowing into the reservoir but from then on it was tough going. Hauling 250m up the side of Wee Binnian was hard work with no wind to cool our fevered brows. We pressed on around the slopes of Slieve Binnian, down to Binnian Lough, across the Annalong valley to a control on the slopes of Chimney Rock, then struggled across the rugged heathery slopes of Slieve Donard to Millstone Mountain where a route choice presented itself, down through Donard Wood, or a high route along the slopes of Commedagh. We went low through the forest and slogged through the endless marsh to the slopes of Slievenabrock A struggle up the flanks of Luke's Mountain and another slog through bog and heather brought us to the campsite, tucked under the Hare's Gap near the Trassy Track. Philip and I had slowed down over the last 5k and arrived in the campsite after 6 hrs, 52 mins.

The weather all day had been fine, with good visibility and mild. Having put up the tent we joined Nigel and Harold for afternoon tea and then went visiting to see how everyone had got on. Dinner was eaten outdoors and eventually the campsite quietened as people settled down for the night. The morning came, damp but still mild. A shower reminded us of what it could be like but that too was soon over and we were heading back to the Silent Valley, 14.5k away.

The climb to the Hare's Gap was a mad scramble as there was a mass start. Soon the crowd dispersed as we made our way to the Kilkeel River, then back up the slopes of Slieve Bearnagh and a long traverse across the side of Slieve Loughshanny to Ott Mountain. After a very slow start we began to overtake teams on this stretch and continued to do so right to the finish. The mist came down as we climbed to the summit of Slieve Muck but soon we were in hot sunshine for the long stretch to the summit of Slievenagore. A boggy, tussocky descent - hard on tired legs - brought us to the last control and then the Finish to pick up that prized T-shirt and some refreshments.

The good weather made this a very pleasant, but tough, MMM. We were in 72nd place of 151 starters at the end of Day 1. We did 20.5k with 990m climb in 6 hrs 52 mins. On Day 2 we did 15.5k with 780m climb in 4 hrs 12 mins. and retained our 72nd place. We were 2nd in the Mixed Veteran Class. Fellow 3Rockers Nigel Campbell-Crawford and Harold White came 28th in the C Class and 2nd in the Vet's Class, and well done to Hilde Creagh who, despite hurting her knee on Day 1, completed the full course with her partner Una Coghlan. A mountain marathon is a great combination of orienteering, hillrunning and mountaineering with an overnight camp. I can thoroughly recommend it as a great way of spending the last weekend in September 1993. By the way, the C Class was won by Brian Creedon and Marcus Pinker with Gavan Doherty and John Feehan 2nd, well done lads!

Karrimor International Mountain Marathon

Lake District, October 24/25

Doddick Gill Is For Heroes Only

A. Wainwright, writing about the various ascent routes to the summit of Blencathra (868m), made the following observation... "I have made some harsh comments about some of the routes of ascent already described but their many difficulties are insignificant when compared with the terrors of Doddick Gill. This ravine carries a deep watercourse between the steep slopes of Hall's Fell and Doddick Fell and is so closely confined by impenetrable banks of dense heather that progress is only possible by a mad scramble up the bouldery bed of the descending stream. It is a desperate struggle where every step has to be planned and tested amongst the chaos of stones littering the cascading water, a way forward being gained only by involuntary slips and stumbles and wettings. All things come to an end, even Doddick Gill, and upon arriving at a confluence of streams at long last, bruised and dishevelled and questioning his sanity, the weary traveller has two chances of escape. Directly ahead and far above is the summit pyramid of Blencathra, quite obviously promising nothing but more discomfort and suffering, but by tackling the rough slope to the left, the ridge of Hall's Fell can be reached, giving a belated reward.....Doddick Gill is for heroes only."

Add to the above: snow on the ground, snow showers, low cloud and visibility and you have an exact description of our route to our first control, the "confluence of streams" on the 1992 Karrimor 25th International Mountain Marathon, 24th/25th October in the Northern Lake District.

The journey from Holyhead told its own story, hail showers, snow on the mountains and more hail showers. We picked up our maps at the Event Centre in Threlkeld and saw, with sinking hearts, that we were going to be in the Skiddaw/Blencathra area. A place on the "Karrimor" is much sought after and this year T entered a team for the Long Score. The classes are Elite, A, B, C, Long Score and Short Score. The Long Score (a new class this year) gave 7 hours on Day 1 and 6 hours on Day 2 to get as many points as possible. The Short Score was 5 hours and 4 hours respectively. There was the usual points penalty for being over time. Incidentally, 2900 teams entered this year and 1195 were lucky in the draw and gained entry. 250 points over two days entitles a team to the Karrimor Certificate and this was our goal.

So, at 8.49 on a cold, showery Saturday morning Philip Butler and Trina Cleary stood in the start box waiting for the off. We were given our control description sheets and spent the next 29 minutes taking down all the controls and carefully considering our options long low route with low points or high route with high points - that was the question. Which brings me back to Wainwright's description and our journey up Doddick Gill to the confluence of streams 255m above us and worth 30 points. Snow fell and mist swirled around as we climbed steeply up a further 270m to Blencathra Ridge. The mist briefly cleared and there below, 150m down a steep slope was our next control, Scales Tarn and another 30 points. Back up those 150m again and on along the summit ridge in a whiteout, ploughing through snowdrifts. Again the mist lifted briefly and the beautiful ridge appeared in all its corniced glory. Our big climbs were now over and we went down Blease Fell to a low level route which would bring us eventually to the campsite near Mosedale. We picked up a series of "easy" 10 point controls and then had to wade the Caldew River which was deep, icy and swift. We were now getting cold and the hail showers were increasing in frequency and ferocity. We arrived at the campsite with 170 points and 1 hour and 10 minutes to spare.

The showers eventually died out and the evening became calm and very cold. We visited our friends (and relatives), swopped stories of near misses, slips, route choices and experiences, ate our delicious dinner, admired the stars, prepared the porridge and settled down for the night. The morning brought torrential rain, then less torrential rain and finally a snowstorm. Our control description sheets disintegrated and the spirit pens would not write. We checked where the nearest controls were and made our decision - again to get our climbing over at the start. We set off from the campsite to a stream bend 120m above and then climbed 285m up the side of Bowscale Fell and then down the other side to a sheepfold on the side of the hill, all this in a blizzard and whiteout. Our main climb was now over (we thought) but feeling strong we decided to return via Souther Fell and get another 50 points, it just involved another 285m climb. We then jogged along picking up the remaining controls (which included a 5.5k stretch between two controls) and finally crossed the Finish line with 42 minutes to spare and 300 points to our credit.

It was a most enjoyable and exhilarating experience. The camaraderie at the campsite, the organisers' constant battle to keep the walls of the "loos" standing in the teeth of a howling gale, losing a glove whilst fetching water in the dark and finding it in the morning, cooking dinner, the sound of rain lashing on the tent, cold hands and feet, brandy and drinking chocolate before settling down, the reluctance to leave the warm sleeping bag, taking down the tent in a blizzard, reaching a control and adding up the tally, the friendliness of the people manning the controls - all wonderful memories to be treasured. Despite the cold conditions we were warm most of the time. It was dangerous underfoot in places but we took care and chose routes we felt we could handle. We were tired when we finished but had no ill-effects or injuries. We probably underestimated our ability but as a team we worked well together and agreed on all decisions. I carried a pack weighing 11 lbs. and Philip's was 16 lbs.

For those interested in statistics we were a Mixed Veteran Team; Day 1: 16.75 k with 1,100 m climb, time taken 5 hrs 50 mins, 170 points
Day 2: 16.50 k with 810 m climb, time taken 5 hrs 12 mins, 130 points.

And Wainwright was right - Doddick Gill was for heroes only.

Trina Cleary (3ROC) was our intrepid reporter on both these mountain marathons.

The Tragedy of King Bjorn

a play in five acts
by Peadar O'Groupach

For those of you who may have found the first instalment of this (Bjorn's Saga?) a trifle obscure, despite the explanation at the end of the first episode, we can now reveal the true identities of the main characters. King Bjorn is played by Bill Edwards, Carlos Leuz by Colm Rothery, Sean by John Feehan, Julius by James Logue and Paddy by Colm O'Halloran. This is the continuation of their exploits on the European summer orienteering circuit.

Act 2 Sportcentrum Jicin, Czechoslovakia

The action now transfers by means of an eight cylinder tank known as a Tatra, from the Czech 5-Day to the Irish team training camp in Jicin.

Scene 1 Monday August 10th

Balcony shared by rooms 8 and 9 where the Irish team are housed. Dark, thunder and lightning, heavy rain.

Sean: Wow! Did you see that one?
Carlos: All the houses have lightning conductors. I wonder are there many people killed by lightning here?
Julius: Paddy almost died today.
Carlos: I'm not surprised, after his little escapade in Dead Fish Lake yesterday.
Julius: No, seriously. He was standing on top of one of those big- sandstone pillars. I told him get down in case a sudden wild gust of wind would come out of nowhere and blow him away, but he wouldn't listen. Next minute an insect started flapping his wings on a nearby hill.
Carlos: What has that got to do with it?
Julius: Kuos theory. Bjorn explained it all to me. He's got a book on it. Apparently, they had a big hurricane in Malaysia and it was all caused by the Kuos butterfly flapping its wings.

Enter Bjorn with 5 beers. Bjorn tell Carlos about Kuos theory.

Bjorn: Chaos theory.
Julius: That's what I said. Look, there are stars up there.
Carlos: Cowdung.
Julius: There are, I can see the plough. Look!
Bjorn: It's pouring rain.
Sean:[singing] "Starry starry night, paint your palette blue and grey ..."
Carlos: There are no stars, you rotten idiot.
Paddy: You have to wait for the lightning to light them up so you can see them.
Julius: You don't believe me. I tell you they're up there.
Bjorn: Carlos, did you tell Spikyhead that we didn't want two eighty minute sessions again tomorrow?
Carlos: Yeah! It's all arranged. A fast course in the morning and three short sprint courses in the afternoon. At least it might be reasonably cool tomorrow after the rain tonight.
Bjorn: A toast to a day when it doesn't get above thirty degrees.
All: Sláinte. [They drink and lapse into silence. Nature continues her performance and one by one they finish their drinks and retire.]

Notes on Act 2 Scene 1

A certain callousness and lack of common courtesy is evident in the team's behaviour. The group willingness to refer to their course planner and control placer as simply "Spikyhead', derived from hairstyle, rather than making an effort to grasp his proper Czech name, is somewhat vulgar.

Scene 2 Two nights later. Room 9.

Dark, a trickle of moonlight through the window. A buzzing noise. Random two tone curses. Light-switch click.

Julius: Where are they?
Bjorn:[standing on his bed looking up into corner of room] There's one over here somewhere.
[Julius runs over and jumps on to his bed and squats, his hands raised about a foot apart, poised, ready for action. Bjorn follows and adopts a similar stance just behind Julius.]
Bjorn:[Clapping his hands together violently] Got one.
Julius: Find the body. There's no bounty without the body.
[They rummage briefly among the bedclothes and assorted orienteering gear which makes up the carpeting and then continue hunting. More claps.]
Julius and Bjorn: Yeah! Yeah!
[They dance excitedly around the floor for several minutes, watched in bemusement by Paddy, who has, since early in the scene, been watching from his bed, his head propped on his elbow. An evil grin lights on his face as he plots his revenge for this violent interruption of his slumbers. Once more the light switch clicks and the room is returned to darkness and quiet.]

Notes on Act 2 Scene 2

Historically this scene has great significance as resulting from it the play took its birth.

Scene 3 Breakfast the following morning.

Sean and Carlos are seated, eating.
Enter Julius and Paddy. They sit.

Sean: Where's Bjorn?
Julius: We burned him up and then we left him and ran on ahead.
Paddy: He wasn't feeling too good.
Carlos: My rotten bag's bothering me a bit.
Paddy:[to Julius] You were complaining a bit about your stomach last night.
Julius:[in a subdued, pained, tone, his face contorted] You should have seen what happened this morning.

Enter Bjorn
Bjorn: I hate running before breakfast.[sits] Carlos, Spikyhead is looking for you.
Carlos: Creep!.

Exit Carlos

Julius:[to Paddy] What were you doing out on the balcony at three o clock this morning?
Paddy: I couldn't sleep so I went out and sat in the moonlight.
Julius: What were you writing?
Paddy: You'll see.

Re-enter Carlos

Carlos:[mocking] "Here Swedish ground, very fast. Me elite runner, five minutes one kilometre here." [sits, looks around] Where's me yoghurt? [Bjorn lifts tea pot to reveal yoghurt hidden behind. - Julius's work]
Bjorn: Here.
Carlos:[relieved that his friends don't have to suffer] I thought I was going to have to bust the four of youse. [opens yoghurt and eats hungrily] We've got a lift to Prague at eleven. We can do a bit of sight-seeing there before taking an overnight train to Budapest. We then have a few hours there before catching another train to Pecs in time to register for World Cup race 4.
Julius: Right! Let's pack.

Exeunt

Notes on Act 2 Scene 3

The Purpose of Act 2 Scene 3

(i) To bridge the gap between the training camp and World Cup 4.
(ii) To boost Julius' and Paddy's egos.

Act 3 Hungary

Scene 1 August 14

Room 201 Hotel Fenyves. A long, narrow room, high on a hillside that looks south over Pecs. Julius and Paddy are sprawled semi-naked on two beds arranged end to end against the far wall. Sean is lounging in an armchair near the opposite wall.

Sean: Is that a phone for room service? Order three bottles of water, paracetamol, stomach settlers, a massage, deep heat .....
Julius: I need a new pair of legs. These poor ones are dead. I tried to go up some steps today and they wouldn't have any of it. Order one of the girls from Club Laura.
Sean: Oh shit! I don't feel too good. I think I'm going to get sick.
Julius: I'm glad to get off those stinking trains.

Exit Sean.

Julius:[prone on bed pulling gear out of his rucksack] There's plasters, head lamp, brush, water bottle, tapes, pair of shoes, there's another pair of shoes, clothes, bag of wet stuff.[stops] Will you hang those up please, [adopts a martyrs tone] don't bother, I'll do it myself.

Re-enter Sean.

Sean: Why are you walking like that, Julius?
Julius: I don't mind, Sean. I'll hang these things up myself.
Sean: I've got a temperature.
Julius:[looks at him] You've spots not a temperature.[starts to hang clothes] How come I've only four pair of running pants. I'd millions when I left. Have some of you been stealing my under-wear? Where's me jumper? [finishes hanging clothes] My stomach's bad. I'll never survive fifteen k on Sunday.
Paddy:[abusively] It's two days before the race and already you've had a bad run. Two days after a good race you feel sore. Two days before and your feeling bad, you'll be flying on the day. And if you don't so what? What does it matter? "Oh I'm so unhappy, I had a bad run." Stop acting the idiot.

A brief silence follows.

Julius: Right. Let's go for food.

Exeunt.

Notes on Act 3 Scene 1

The first part of this scene was recorded accurately at the time of occurrence by a noted historian. The latter part alas was not and the actual tirade of abuse and complaints which prompted same can only be guessed at.

Scene 2 Saturday August 15.

A clean, runnable beech wood. Model Event for World Cup 4. Orienteers of various nationalities. Two Slovenians, Boris and Gregor, are sitting under a tree. Enter Julius.

Boris: Ah! at last someone we can beat.
Julius: You'll be lucky, we've got our secret weapon here this year.
Boris: Is he under forty?
Gregor: Why don't you form a few more countries? Then we'd have a few more people to beat.
Julius: Good idea. Then someone from Connaught could get a run and none of us would be last.

Julius walks on and joins Bjorn and Paddy.

Paddy: Julius, look over there. It's the girl from the stand at the Czech-5 Day.
Julius: I told you she was good.
Paddy: She's not Czech. She's got one of those red, white and blue flags with a crest on it.
Julius: She must be Croatian because I was just talking to the Slovenians over there. Paddy: We'll have to have a chat with her.

Enter British team easily identified in team tracksuits.

Stan: It's the Irish team and they're not drinking.
Paddy: It's Steve Hale and he's not injured.
Bjorn: I'm off. Take splits
Julius: O.K., we're on your tail. Let's go.

They exit at a trot, looking knowingly at their maps.

Notes on Act 3 Scene 2

The Purpose of Act 3 Scene 2

(i) To introduce some of the greats and not so greats of world orienteering.
(ii) To give the play some international flavour and to provide colour. This scene can make a lavish stage spectacle, full of Norwegians and Swedes in fancy multicoloured tracksuits and orienteering suits, and nationalities of all sorts in all stages of national dress and undress.

Scene 3 Later the same day.

Terrace restaurant Hotel Kikelet - event centre. Seated at a table are: the Irish team, the Canadian team (Brian, Brian, Pam and Pippa) and Kristin (an American).

Julius:[to Pam] One of your Brian's is off after me.
Carlos:[to Pam] Why did you let out a big laugh during the draw. [Laughter, like only Pam knows how]
Pippa: That's because she's off right after Kristin.
Pam: We're sharing a room.
Kristin: It's really hot. I think we should run at night when it's cool.
Paddy: Bjorn's good at night 'O'.
Julius: That's 'cos he's mad.
Bjorn: I'm getting worse.
Julius: Your not as mad as you used to be. I get scared. It's the big hairy beast. Every time you turn around he disappears but you know he's there behind you.
Carlos: Can I've me pen back mister?
Pam: Carlos can I see your map? [studies map] Look at all that downhill climb, I can't do it.
Julius: That's an interesting excuse. "I blew up. I got tired going down all those hills." Pam: There's a guy from Washington and he's always got some excuse. "Oh I got treed by a bear."
Julius: That's a good one. You can't really do it in Ireland though. "I was treed by a fox. A big one thirty pounds."

Scene 4 The morning of the race.

Room 201 Hotel Fenyves. Paddy in bed, just waking up. Enter Julius Julius: Bjorn's sick.

Paddy: No.
Julius: Yep! He's been throwing up all night. Food poisoning.
Paddy: That's great. Carlos is gone and Sean is in no fit condition to run.
Julius: Bjorn's going to run. He said he'd start anyway and see what happened.

Scene 5 Afternoon approaching prizegiving time.

Finish area. The last control is within an enclosed recreational area accessed by a gate, through which the runners enter, after descending across an open area from the forest and the second last control. An event official is closing the gate.

Bjorn: There's one more to come.
Official: No they've all finished, the last one came a minute ago.
Carlos: That was an American, there is an Irish guy still out there.
Official: No, all finished.[locks gate]

Paddy appears out of forest.

Julius: There he is now. [the official opens the gate, Paddy enters looking for the last control]
Carlos: It's here, come this side.
[Paddy punches control and runs to the finish]
Julius: The pool is nice - you've just time for a quick swim.

Scene 6 Later that evening.

Banquet Hotel Kikelet. Groups of orienteers seated at tables. Paddy is talking to two girls, Julius approaches.

Paddy: Julius, this is Dunja and this is Eva, they're from Croatia.
Julius: You were at the Czech-5 day.
Dunja: Yes, we kept seeing you in the stand at the campsite.
Julius: You speak English.
Paddy: They were eavesdropping on our conversations, letting on they didn't understand a word.

Dunja: You know, I was reading a book in English and I was wondering when you were going to notice.
Eva: You weren't very smart.

Scene 7 Midnight.
Bar in Hotel Kikelet

Enter Paddy, Julius, Bjorn and others.

Paddy: Let's sit there, there's a few world champions at that table.
Julius: Alright. [They sit at a table with Jorgen Martensson, Egil Johanson and Morten Berglia, the latter two being Norwegian team officials. A crash of breaking glass as some members of the Finnish team manage to dislodge a glass table cover.]
Julius: Orienteers, they're always breaking things.[turns to Jorgen] Did you ever try orienteering?
Jorgen: What's that?
Julius: You get a map and you have to find points on it marked with little red circles. Jorgen: Yes, I think I have done some once.
Julius: You should do some training.
Jorgen: My friend, he has found the little red circles too. Twice I think.
Julius: You shouldn't drink too much of that stuff either. This is Bjorn. He would have won today only somebody poisoned his food last night.[to Paddy] Go ask Steve Hale why his hair has started to turn grey since he got married.

Notes on Act 3 Scenes 3,4,5,6 and 7.

Scene 3 is laid back and slow and typifies the pace of life on pre-race day. In contrast scenes 4, 5, 6 and 7 are short and hectic and the rapid scene changing effectively conveys the activity of race day and the ensuing party atmosphere. Tragedy strikes in scene 4, Bjorn is poisoned and in scene 7 Julius makes no secret of his suspicion of a Swedish and Norwegian conspiracy.

SETANTA ORIENTEERS NOTES

MAPPING: Setanta have two mapping projects in the pipeline. One of these is a re-map of an old, and very successful, area known as Ballinascorney and includes Seahan Mtn. The area is close to the Dublin-Wicklow border and within striking distance of the South City. The other project is a new map of Djouce Woods, beyond Powerscourt Demesne in County Wicklow. The former is a short term project and mappers are needed right now. The latter is a much bigger undertaking, involving a lot of work over about eighteen months.

Mapping is a great way of increasing your knowledge of the technical aspects of orienteering (how do you spot a re-entrant at 20 double paces?). The saying "the more the merrier" definitely applies, as many hands make light work. There is no need to be put off by the thought of being left in a huge patch of forest with a blank piece of paper. The field work starts with a base map being split up into small, manageable pieces.

Advice and guidance is available from the more experienced members of the club. The Club produced its first map of Ballinascorney back in 1979. Brian Power produced a black and white map of Kinnitty Forest in the Sliabh Bloom Mountains in 1974 (Irish Orienteers) and members such as Aubrey Flegg, Joe Bent and Colin Dunlop have been involved with orienteering since its introduction to this country, in the late sixties. There is no shortage of experience.

What is needed now, more than ever, is new blood and enthusiasm. The future of the sport in Leinster depends on whether we continue to produce new maps. If we fail on this, the apparent decline will continue. So we are laying down the challenge! If you are interested in giving it a try, contact the Secretary.

NATIONAL O-DAY: The club event on National O-Day at the Hellfire Wood went well. Rumour has it that the event had the highest turn-out (about 200) of all the Dublin events. Thanks are due especially to Ciaran Young, Mark and Shane O'Neill and to all who helped on the day. Again this year, it appears that insufficient planning and publicity was put into the day, to the point of having to question its effectiveness and asking what is going wrong!

NEW YEAR'S EVENT: Setanta are running a score event on January 10th. How about fulfilling a secret ambition and planning, organising or controlling. Contact the Secretary if available to assist.

SEASON'S GREETINGS: Wishing all our members and friends a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Don't forget the event on Dec.26th. at Three Rock.

ENQUIRIES TO: The Secretary, SETANTA ORIENTEERS
Jocelyn Cathalin, (tel.2985799)

Great Eastern Navigators Orienteering Club

Happenings:

By the time you read this the GEN AGM and party will have happened: organised by Brenda Hynes and hosted by Andrew Bonar Law in his Castle (good defence against gatecrashers!)

Congratulations to Mary Healy and Jane Watt who represented GEN in the W35 class at the Senior Home International in Scotland in October. Congratulations also to Diana Large and Reserves Paget McCormack (M50) and Win McCormack (W40) on being selected for the Veteran Home International team.

It is also time for subs. (What?) Yes, if you have not already done so, please forward your 1992-93 season subscription to the treasurer, Paget McCormack, 11 Green Road, Blackrock, Co. Dublin (or this may be your last TIO!). Adults £8, juniors £5, families £10. Cheques payable to "Great Eastern Navigators". You will be rewarded by your own personal "smart" card which will entitle you to discounts at Leinster events.

Upcoming Events

January 17 Corkach Park, Clondalkin, colour event; February 7 Carrickgolligan, Leinster League event on our new map. Please contact the secretary if you are interested in helping.

AJAX News

The Leinster Championships 1993

Cronybyrne is the venue, 20 March 1993 is the date and AJAX are the organisers. If you harbour a secret ambition to organise a particular area of a championship event, now is the time to act. Marcus Geoghegan is waiting for your call volunteering your services. All you have to do (initially) is phone him on 2831073.

However, all members who do not volunteer – active, semi-retired and retired alike – will be called on to help in organising this event. So get your call in to Marcus before he gets on to you!

The event is being held on a revised map, the final surveying for which is being carried out around now. Again, a chance for you to volunteer your services.

Cloghleagh/Leinster League 5

Thanks are due to the organising team of the Cloghleagh Leinster League 5 event on 6 December. Organiser: Leo Donovan; Planner: Colm Rothery; Controller: Sebastian, our new member from France whose surname has unfortunately escaped me.

AJAX Christmas Party 1992

The annual AJAX Christmas party is usually organised at the last minute when the word gets around who is back in Ireland and for how long.

Well, the news in so far is Orla will be in town from 23 December for two weeks, Michele is having an early trip home this year which doesn't include Christmas, no news from Egypt (hint, hint), Eoin says he won't be home, and we just might get a visitor from Germany if we're lucky.

Has anyone got an idea for a venue for this year's party? Is anyone volunteering?

Tara Horan
